Background & Context

This quarter I spoke to Courtney, the Disability Outreach Center Coordinator, the Students with Disabilities Advocacy Council, and Sue from the EOO. All three of these groups identified the creation of Scent Free Zones as a priority for accessibility advocacy at Western. A resolution regarding Scent Free Zones was brought to the Board, but has been put on hold until further notice, seeing as most of the proposed resolution could be better accomplished as a policy. At the Board Meeting, Wayne Rocque mentioned that the Special Education department at Western has Scent Free Zone signs in place. I met with Gail Coulter, the head of the Special Education department to discuss their experience with Scent Free Zones. Gail explained that the Scent Free Zone policy is an informal agreement between staff and students, and that several faculty in the department experience asthma attacks triggered by scent. Scent Free Zone signs hang in the department on the second floor of Miller Hall, and several offices on the second floor of College Hall have also started posting signs. Collectively, Management Council has agreed to make their offices Scent Free starting in Spring quarter by speaking to their staff and by posting Scent Free Zone signs. Because this would directly enhance the operations of the Associated Students, I am requesting this money from FXXENH on Management Council's behalf.

Summary of Proposal

To design and print 50 Scent Free Zone signs through the Publicity Center. These signs will be available either on foam board or as a wall decal. Tanguage for the signs will be workshopped at Management Council, then a publicity request will be submitted to the Publicity Center. Signs will be distributed at Management Council, then through the Disability Outreach Center Coordinator at will.
