

Associated Students of Western Washington University

Resolution from the Executive Board

Whereas President Millka Solomon has made invaluable contributions that have ultimately benefitted the students at Western Washington University (WWU), and has always put others before herself, in order to ensure that the campus serves as an institution that is safe and accessible for all identities, while also remaining supportive of her Executive Board, and never missing an opportunity to share her wisdom, love, or insight with them, and;

Whereas Interim Senate Pro-Tempore & Vice President for Academic Affairs Levi Eckman has worked to craft and implement a Student Senate in order to provide for better clarity in existing democratic structures of the AS, while also working to support the twenty Student Senators to the best of his abilities, and providing all of the Executive Board and Student Senate with as much love and appreciation that he could, never forgetting the value that student voices hold, and;

Whereas Vice President for Activities Ama Monkah has tirelessly worked alongside many different club and athletic groups to build a more cohesive community among invaluable organizations, and has given so much of herself to her position, while still remaining an inspiration to all of those around her, throughout both her professional and personal life, and;

Whereas Vice President for Business & Operations Nate Jo entered this position in the third and final Quarter of the term, but despite working on a limited time crunch, has made important strides to the development of various business-oriented procedures in the Associated Students (AS) in order to ensure the longevity of this organization, and the necessary equity for all employees who enter these essential positions, and;

Whereas Vice President for Diversity Camilla Mejia has done valuable work for the development of the new Multi-Cultural Center (MCC) for students, while also recognizing the important need for equitable spaces on campus, and always working to increase opportunities for advocacy efforts, while also making her opinions well-known, all of which has contributed to a better campus climate not only for individuals in the AS, but for all students at WWU, and;

Whereas Vice President for Governmental Affairs Natasha Hessami has effectively led the Representation & Engagement Program (REP) through three successful elections, and has ensured that student voices are advocated for on the local, state, and federal lobbying levels, which has ultimately made for a better University for all students in Washington State, and never once did her passion fade, and;

Whereas Vice President for Student Life Anne Lee has made substantial progress in their role, and has helped to divide their position into two new, empowering spots for students to advocate for different, but equally essential student rights, while also remaining optimistic and purposeful about their work, and always relying on a critical eye to examine all matters with the attention they deserve; now, therefore:
