How will this event benefit the WWU community?

Please provide a paragraph response.

The Earth Week series provides educational, interactive, and fun programming to get students and the wider community excited about sustainability and the protection and stewardship of the planet. The range of events will cater to the larger student body beyond those who are already self-identified environmentalists. We have partnered with on campus organizations as well as community businesses and artists to help fund and support meaningful engagement between environmentalism (and all related branches) with art and joy. There are events that will build upon existing passions for the planet along with engaging community members who are new or not involved in sustainability or environmentalism. This event series will be a highlight for April on Western's campus and will provide fun and exciting interactions between people and the environment.

What kind of funding are you requesting?

Grant
